

8TH INTERNATIONAL STAFF TRAINING WEEK UAS NYSa, 04-08.11.2019

" International Student at the University-blessing or a curse"

On 04-08.11.2019 the University of Applied Sciences in Nysa is organising the 8th International Staff Training Week for the academic and administration staff members. Besides the official meetings, the host University will provide a considerable range of cultural activities.

This provoking title of the meeting will create a platform for wide discussion on the actual situation at the Universities in terms of their preparation towards international student`s services and internationalisation in general. A lot of attention will also be given to the student`s administration services at universities and procedures towards Erasmus+ KA-107 exchange. Internationalisation of universities cannot be avoided nowadays and became now an integral part of higher education. With this obvious fact many problems appeared not only connected to the service or administration of the variety projects and programmes but also with approaches and attitudes towards foreign staffs and students touching cross-culture understanding and awareness. It has definitely a great impact not on just those who are mobile, but all the academics, administrative staff and students within host university. The challenge is to use it as a leverage for institutional and personal development. Participants of the meeting will try to identify those opportunities and to share ideas and experiences how to make best of them.

The objective of the 8th ISTW is:

- to share information and best practices on international student`s services at the universities
- to participate in the workshop with Erasmus+ and UAS in Nysa students on "Cross- cultural understanding in: 1) teaching, 2) administration service, 3) student`s life
